

Abstract of the Disclosure

When an application procedure starts, a user is requested to specify equipment to be discarded.

5 When the equipment to be discarded is specified, it is determined whether or not the standards for a weight and a size of a distribution company who transfers the equipment to be discarded from the user are exceeded. Then, it is determined whether

10 or not the processing cost has already been paid, or whether the payment is to be made by transfer, using a credit card, etc. Then personal information is input, and settling means is practically specified, thereby terminating the application for 15 recycling a PC from the user.